

Money Math & Budgeting

Program 2019/2020

A major contributor to independence is the ability to count, read, and budget money and these goals form the curriculum focus for the Money Math & Budgeting course. The program begins with the skills needed to count out the money required to make a purchase and identify whether the correct change has been received. Skills targeted in this section of the course are skip-counting money, matching the closest bill to the cost of an item, counting out the bills for a given amount, estimation of correct change and the use of a calculator. Money literacy emphasizes place value, punctuation, and stating dollar values in spoken form. The budgeting curriculum begins with planning to make purchases within a small personal budget and aims to develop the skills required to manage a monthly budget scenario.

This course is taught by a BC-certified teacher and one teaching assistant.
